

Successful Doctoral Dissertation Defense of Ms. Eram Fatima

Ms. Eram Fatima successfully defended her doctoral thesis in a viva voce examination, marking the culmination of her rigorous research journey. The defense took place on 15 June 2024, before a panel of esteemed academicians which includes, Prof. Asim Siddiqui, Department of English, Aligarh Muslim University, Prof. Wahajul Haq, Dean, Doctoral Studies and Research, Integral University, Prof. H.M. Arif, Head, Dept. of Languages, Integral University, faculty members of Department of Languages, and research scholars. The title of her thesis is “Home and Exile: Heterogeneous and hyphenated identities in the diasporic short fiction of the select Indian English writers”. The panel thoroughly questioned Ms. Eram on various aspects of her work. She demonstrated a comprehensive understanding of her research topic, methodology, and findings. She articulated her arguments clearly and responded to queries with confidence and insight. The examiners were impressed by the originality and significance of her contribution to the field. Following a brief deliberation, the panel unanimously agreed to award Ms. Eram her Ph.D. This achievement represents a significant milestone in her academic career.

Warm regards,
Prof. H.M. Arif
Head, Dept. of Languages
Integral University